MY GRANDFATHER'S MILL.

BY MRS. BETTIE J. MCKOY, FORMERLY OF DOVER, KY.

My Grandfather's mill,
At the foot of the hill,
Has stood for many a year,
And ground out the corn,
At evening and morn,

For people who lived far and near.

Twas a wonder to me,
In my childhood, to see
The ponderous structures so high,
When I climbed to the top,
With a skip and a hop,

I thought I was "most to the sky."

Fell many a day,
I've spent there, at play;
And down by the window I'd kneel;
With eyes shining bright,
I'd watch with delight,

The water pour over the wheel.

The meal and the flour
Came down in a shower,
As pure as the snow, and as white;
The wheels' busy whirr
Kept the miller astir,

From morning till late in the night.

And when it grew late,
He'd open the flood gate,
And the water would dance on its way;
It had worked with a will,
In turning the mill,

And now it was ready for play.

Twas a beautiful sight,
In the clear moonlight,
To see the miniature fall,
The water went dashing,
And flashing and splashing,

Then flowed by the old garden wall
Many years have now passed,
Since the wheel turned its last,
And Grandfather's gone to his rest;
But the sturdy old mill

Is standing there still,
In mosses and spider-webs dressed.

The race is now dry;
The water-wheel high
Is broken and gone to decay;
The hopper is bare;
I can not find there

The scales were we used to weigh.

The mill has looked down,
Without e'er a frown,
On four generations below,
Since it was first planned
By grandfather's hand,

Near three score and ten years ago.

Fond memories still
Cling round the old mill,
From the roof to the foundation stone;
Though useless and old,
No stranger so bold

As to touch e'en the moss on its gown.

Guiteau Weakening.

Chicago Tribune.

Guiteau, according to Deputy Warden Ross, who has charge of him is weakening. Warden Ross, being asked how his prisoner was said:

"Guiteau is not so well as he has been. He weakened a great deal last week."

"From what cause?"

"It was the interview in some Chicago newspaper in which Scoville said he was willing Guiteau should be sacrificed if thereby public attention would be called to the necessity for reform in the law relating to insane criminals."

"Guiteau now reminds me," said his Warden, "of the story connected with the hanging of Modoc Captain Jack. As the noose was about to be put about his neck Capt. Jack said: 'Don't hang me. Hang Scar-faced Charley.' That is just the way with Guiteau. He has no objection to legislation on the subject of insanity, but he does not want to be hung—at any rate, not as an example of the deficiencies of the law. He is quite willing that Scoville or anybody else shall be hung. Indeed, he said so the other day. In a paroxysm of fear he cried out to one of the guards, 'Why don't they hang Scoville and let me go? I am a high-toned gentleman, and he is only a real-estate lawyer. The country can spare him better than it can spare me!'"

"This interview," continued Ross, "threw Guiteau into a fever, and he has had the sulks ever since. He is well. His appetite, which has always been very great, has entirely failed him within the past week. There was a curious incident the other day at the jail. A man came to visit him who said he had traveled all the way from Tennessee just to take a look at him, and the tramp said: 'I started with me; I can tell you that, now.'

out a cent, I beat the railroad for the passage, and I have not a cent now." Guiteau was greatly interested in the tramp's story. His experience in beating a railroad company seemed to recall pleasant memories to Guiteau, and when the tramp left, Guiteau did not ask him to buy a photograph or an autograph, but gave him a half dollar, and said that he hoped that would help to get a good square meal. This is the first visitor Guiteau has had who was not invited to purchase something."

"Do you think Guiteau will break down on his way to the scaffold?" his keeper was asked.

"I think that he will break down then, and before that time. He is breaking down now. My impression is that, as soon as the court in banc decides against him, he will break down entirely, and I think he will probably die of inanition before the day set for his execution arrives."

The Coming Republican War.

Philadelphia Times.

There are two great lions in the Stalwart path—the dead Garfield and the living Blaine. The memory of Garfield could be successfully clouded with the party organs and party machinery, but Blaine is a Stalwart foe before whom the bravest Stalwarts cower, and he is wily as he is brave and powerful. He dines with Arthur and Arthur dines with him, but neither is deceived by the other. Both know that soon, at the latest, they must lock horns for a struggle from which both cannot emerge with political life, and Arthur, with all his patronage and organs, and machinery, trembles when he contemplates the conflict. It is Blaine that Arthur fears, and it is the fear of Blaine that makes the hitherto bold and confessedly sagacious Arthur take his steps with a degree of caution that is freely condemned as cowardice. Blaine has no lines of retreat in his strategy. He can not force the battle, for it must come from Arthur, but when it does come, as it must, he will welcome it. He is ready now; he has been ready since the day Garfield died, and he will patiently await the Stalwart assailant that must come in time and that may come any day, and when it does come, Blaine will be to Arthur's administration what Clay was to Tyler's; what Douglas was to Buchanan's, and what Stevens was to Johnson's. It may or may not make Blaine President, but it will leave Arthur's administration a hopeless wreck. Blaine is the confessed representative of the policy of the late President Garfield and the issue as accepted by the Nation is a direct issue between a better Republican rule and a combination of spoils-men. Such an issue, with Blaine's matchless ability and magnetism to inspire the popular side can mean but one result—the overthrow of Arthur and the mastery of Blaine.

Balancing the Books.

At the end of last year, when an Ohio bank cashier could not make his books balance, the president sat down with him and said:

"Mr. Symonds, it is evident that you have made a clerical error somewhere."

"But I have verified my figures over and over again," protested the cashier.

"Just so, but yet you have overlooked the error. According to your books this bank is $700 22 short."

"Yes, sir."

"According to my private memoranda you are a $400 trotting horse and a $300 diamond pin ahead, while the rats probably ate up the 22 cents. Please correct the error and furnish a clean balance sheet."

Mr. Symonds isn't a bank cashier any more. His health was so bad that he had to have outdoor employment.

An Austin boy came from school very much excited, and told his father that he believed all human beings were descended from apes, which made the old man so mad that he replied angrily: "That may be the case with you, but it ain't with me; I can tell you that, now."

ELEGANT EASTER CARDS, AT

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

FIDAY EVE., MARCH 24, 1882.

The Ripley Republicans will hold their primary election next Saturday.

The river is falling at Vicksburg and also all along the Yazoo, Sunflower and Tallahatchie Rivers.

The Democrats of Rhode Island have nominated a State ticket headed by Horace A. Kimball for Governor.

The indications are that the admission of Dakota to the Union will become a party question, with Democrats solidly opposed:

The Pond Bill has been referred to the Judiciary Committee of the Ohio House, in order that the brewers of the State may be heard on it.

The President has issued a formal order disapproving the sentence of the Court-Martial in the Whittaker case, and ordered his dismissal from arrest.

The proposition to appoint a Board of Arbitration to which shall be referred all disputed matters relating to labor and wages in Cincinnati is favorably received by the classes most interested.

THREE hundred reports from various sections of Indiana indicate that more acres have been sown in wheat than last year, and that the present condition of the crop is fully twenty per cent. above that of an average year.

ALL over the country there are signs of discontent among the workingmen. Yet, the Republicans in Congress have just resolved in caucus to wring one hundred millions annually from the wages of labor above what is needed for the support of the government.

THE Ripley Bee says: Jordan Brown made a lot of half barrels for Col. Gus. Simon's celebrated medical water, last week. We are glad to learn that the Col. is finding a ready sale for this water. As a cure for dyspepsia it has no equal. Any of our citizens wanting to try its qualities can be supplied by sending their orders to the Colonel, on the steamer Morning Mail, or to Aberdeen, O.

SHERIFF, the witness before the U. S. House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that but one person holding an office under the Government had taken a fee from the company, and that was the Collector of the Port of New York, Wm. H. Robertson, who had been paid a fee for services rendered the company in the capacity of attorney. Collector Robertson declines to make any statement regarding the matter until he has seen a full report of the proceedings.

THE uneasiness among various classes of workingmen is increasing. In Lawrence, Mass., a reduction of wages has produced a formidable strike. In Fall River the operatives are preparing for a similar movement. The iron-moulder in Troy, New York, have made a demand for a twenty-five per cent. increase in certain grades of work, which has been refused. In Boston there is a strike of the Western Union Telegraph Messenger boys. The gold-beaters of Philadelphia, to the number of two hundred and fifty are on a strike. In the Cumberland Mining regions of Pennsylvania the strike still continues. There is much distress among the anthracite miners on account of the reduction of working time. It is to be observed that nearly all these labor movements have their origin in the so-called "protected" industries, or among the employes of monopolies.

Garfield's Arm Around Dorsey's Neck.
Washington Post.

A gentleman who has been in a position to become thoroughly acquainted with several of the private transactions of the last Administration unburdened his mind of one incident last night. He said: "You know, of course, that ex-Senator Dorsey was very active in the Presidential campaign. You may also have heard that he was credited with carrying the State of Indiana. Well, Gen. Garfield and Dorsey were always warm friends, and when the first noise was made about indictments Dorsey came to Washington and went directly to the White House. He wanted to know just what was going to be done—whether the friends who helped to elect the administration were going to be prosecuted or let alone. Gen. Garfield told his visitor to be easy in his mind, to go back to his ranch in New Mexico, be patient, and no harm would come to him."

"Dorsey acted on his advice, but after a time there was so much newspaper talk about the prosecutions and contemplated indictments that he became scared, left his ranch, and came on again to Washington. He went to the President and said: 'This thing is worrying me terribly. My wife is suffering agonies. I want to know once for all what this thing amounts to.'

"The President got up, and in his usual demonstrative manner, placed his arm around Dorsey and said: 'Now, old fellow I will show you my friendship in this matter. You go back to your rooms at the Riggs and wait for a friend of mine whom I will send to you.' Dorsey went to his room. Gen. Garfield then sent for Mr. MacVeagh, and asked to have all the papers and memoranda of evidence against Dorsey sent to him for his own inspection. Mr. MacVeagh handed him the papers, as requested, and an hour afterward one of the President's private secretaries carried the documents to Dorsey's room at the Riggs House and allowed him to examine them thoroughly. Dorsey made careful notes, and, knowing all that the Government prosecution had against him, has been thoroughly prepared for his defence ever since."

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVE., MARCH 24, 1882.

Now comes a feathered visitor,
From—well, we don't know where,
A quarrelsome, ill natured bird,
A pirate of the air.
And soon he'll go a buming round,
And overhead be dartin'
To make the blue-bird stand around,
That depreating Martin.

THE river is about stationry to-day.

THE martin has put in an appearance.

A new and reliable Kid Glove Cleaner is for sale at Pecor's drug store. It is odorless and works like a charm.

Do not invest heavily in the tree peddler. As a rule you will be able to buy better goods of your home nurserymen.

THE tobacco dealers of Bracken county are buying very carefully, and do not appear to have much confidence in large gains.

DON'T forget that we are doing job printing in the best style at the lowest possible prices. Give us a trial and be convinede of the truth of our assertion.

THE farmers generally are disposed to give the artificial Jimson Bloom a trial. A large number of them have already been sold by Messrs. Townsend & Peace.

THE ladies are informed that they can get at the BULLETIN job printing rooms fifty visiting cards of good quality for 25 cents—the lowest price ever offered in Maysville.

MARCH has been true thus far to its reputation as a variable month. It stormed, and snowed, with rain and sunshine, freezes and thaws according to the rule for the month that divides winter and spring in this climate.

IT is becoming a recognized fact with many of our best farmers that early plowing does much to enhance the chances of a good crop. Ground that is plowed early is quite free from bugs and worms, which are frozen by the cold that is sure to intervene till the usual time of tilling. Plow early if you would have good crops.

CONFIRMED cider drinkers should not fail to read this. It is from a New York paper and tells of a "human cider barrel" at Western Hector, in that State, who has been drinking cider to excess during the past fifteen years, and is lying dangerously sick with what the doctors call vinegar fever. Upon examination he was found nearly filled inside with vinegar mother. All efforts to remove it with cathartics and a vigorous use of the stomach pump have thus far failed. Cider drinkers please take warning.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. Lowry, wife of Lieut. Oswin Lowry, of the United States Navy, is visiting friends at Ripley.

Rev. J. M. Cockins, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Ripley, has announced his intention to resign the charge next month.

Col. John S. Orr of the Bracken Chronicle, was good enough to drop in to see the BULLETIN to-day.

Mrs. F. S. Liggett, of Pittsburg and Mrs. J. W. Darrow, of Vanceburg, are the guests of Mrs. J. C. Lovell, of East Maysville.

Mr. Charles A. Hawks was taken to his home at Ripley from Portsmouth, and is now confined to his bed with malarial fever.

Mrs. J. C. Lovell, of East Maysville, was so unfortunate last evening as to severely scald one of her hands. Her injuries were very painful.

THE following is from the Ashland Independent:

The announcements in the Cincinnati and the Louisville Commercial that Gov. Blackburn had resoled the Ashland murderers was untrue. If the dispatch in the Enquirer of Saturday is true, he has told the correspondent of that paper in advance of their asking it, that he will resole them. It matters not how many so-called confessions may be bulldozed and frightened out of Ellis by making him believe his life is in danger if he does not confess, and that they will, on the other hand all go scot-free if he will confess that his sworn testimony was false, which he declares has been his treatment ever since Judge Brown sent him to Lexington, the people of Ashland are absolutely certain that the right parties are in custody, and it would be idle to deny that there is a strong fear growing in this country almost into a belief that money used unscrupulously in one direction, and respite from time to time, and a mistaken clemency to the criminals, which is a cruelty and outrage on the citizens at the same time, may result in turning Craft, Neal and Ellis loose on this afflicted community.

Sales of Land.

The following changes in the ownership of land have been recorded at the office of the Clerk of the County Court since our last report:

Geo. W. Halliday and wife, to Benj. Edwards colored, one lot in Chester. Consideration, $20.40.

Dr. James Shackleford and wife, to Samuel McKinney, colored, house and lot on the east side of Second street, Maysville, Ky. Consideration $90.

John Hayes to Wm. Bryson, 76½ acres of land on Blue Run Turnpike. Consideration $4,000.

Henry Dersch and wife to Rebecca Wallingford, a lot 30x43 feet, on North side of Third street, between Limestone and Vine streets, Maysville, Ky. Consideration, $2,500.

CHARLEY BROCKMAN, the boy accused of robbing the safe on the wharfboat at Augusta, was arrested at Ripley last Friday, by marshal Lane and taken back to Augusta. He had been to Cincinnati where it is alleged he spent the greater part of the money. His trial took place in the circuit court at Brooksville on Monday, and making a full confession of his crime, he was given the lightest penalty under the law—imprisonment in the penitentiary for one year.

Suicide of J. A. Andrews.

CINCINNATI, March 24, 1882.—James A. Andrews committed suicide at Newark, Ohio, at the Lansing House by taking chloral. A letter to his wife and another addressed to his brother Harry Andrews, at Flemingsburg, Ky., were found in the room. The latter stated that he had twice before attempted to end his life without success and he hopes the last would be successful. His life is insured for $19,000.

Chinese Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24, 1882.—The House by a vote of 167 yeas to 65 nays passed the bill to restrict Chinese immigration and it now only requires the President's approval to make it a law. All amendments were voted down. The bulk of the opposition to the bill come from the Republicans, New England being solid against it.

THE Germantown correspondent of the Bracken Chronicle says: D. C. Fraze sold his property to Mrs. W. F. Pollock, and will move to Maysville, a small place on the Ohio river just under the hill whither the restless, dissatisfied citizens of our place seems to be tending.

REFERRING to the vexed tobacco question now before the Legislature, the Yeoman poet writes:

Tobacco, now, we understand
Has brought the House to grief—
It hoped to hold the thing in hand
And turn a bright new leaf;
But, something lugged it out of place,
And gave them much annoy,
The bulk, it seems, was was not in ease
To cure the Burley boy.

THE following concerning Miss Nellie Burke, the lady who is to ride the ten mile running race at the May meeting of the Maysville Trotting Club, is from the Atchison (Kansas) Patriot: "Miss Burke handles her horses better and makes quicker changes than any lady we have yet seen in the saddle."

THE Morning Mail's broken shaft will lay her up for about a week. The Bonanza in charge of the Morning Mail's crew is now in this trade. The Bonanza's crew was transferred to the Potomac, which goes into the Portsmouth trade. The present programme will be continued until the Morning Mail is ready to resume her place.

OPENING THE CAR WINDOW.

The Experience a Gallant Man Goes Through in the Effort.

Burdette: Maybe a man feels happy and proud and flattered and envied and blessed among men when he sees a pretty girl trying to raise a window on a railway car, and he jumps up and gets in ahead of the other boys and says, "Oh, if you please; I would be so glad," and the other male passengers turn green with envy, and he leans over the back of the seat and tackles the window in a knowing way with one hand, as if peradventure he may toss it aimly with a simple turn of the wrist, but it kind of holds on, and he takes hold with both hands, but it sort of doesn't let go to any alarming extent, and then he pounds it with his fist, but it only seems to settle a "leettle closer into place," and then he comes around and she gets out of the seat to give him a fair chance, and he grapples that window and bows up his back, and tugs and pulls and sweats and strains, and his hat falls off, and his suspender buttons fetch loose, and his vest buckle parts, and his face gets red, and his feet slip, and people laugh, and irreverent young men in remote seats grunt and groan every time he lifts, and cry out, "Now, then, all together," as if in mockery, and he bursts his collar at the forward button, and the pretty young lady, vexed at having been made so conspicuous, says, in her iciest manner, "Oh, never mind, thank you; it doesn't make any difference," and then calmly goes away and sits down in another seat, and that wearied man gathers himself together and reads a book upside down—oh! doesn't he feel good, just? Maybe he isn't happy, but if you think he isn't, don't be fool enough to extend any of your sympathy. He doesn't want it.

Awful Wild Behind.

A lady of Milwaukee has twin sons of whom she is very proud, both being handsome, sprightly, and precociously smart little fellows.

A short time ago, a gentleman sent the lads a pair of "Colorado jacks," which of course, tickled their fancies immensely, after they had learned the important lesson of non-interference with the business end of the animals. One of the boys was giving a glowing description of the pets, which led to the query:

"Are your jacks gentle, Frank?"

"Well, yes, ma'am," said Frank. "They are awful tame in front, but you bet they're awful wild behind."

Chicago Times New York special: Irene Woodward is the name of a tattooed woman who will make her first appearance on Monday morning at a museum here. She is nineteen years old and has never been exhibited. She says that she has spent most of her life in a settler's wagon with her father and brothers. In order not to lose her, her father tattooed a spool on her arm. The process was painful, but she liked the result so well that she urged him to tattoo her more. During the next six years, in his idle moments, he tattooed her entire body with skill and taste. There are representations of insects, animals, men and women, flags, shields, mottoes and many other things.

BATCHELDER'S

Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

THE CHEAPEST AND THE BEST
THE ONLY PRACTICAL EGG CASE.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without rehandling.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, addling, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Fillers complete 65 Cents.

Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Fillers complete 55 Cents.

Cardboard Fillers for refilling 20 Cents.

15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.

BATCHELDER'S EGG TESTER, testing 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, without mailing, with full directions for settling up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
